

Reinhart Names Six New Shareholders

MILWAUKEE – Jerome M. Janzer, CEO of Reinhart Boerner Van Deuren s.c. (Reinhart), announced that six of the firm's attorneys have been named shareholders.

"This accomplished group of attorneys reflects the diverse legal talent at Reinhart and the broad spectrum of services we provide our clients," said Janzer. "Whether facilitating complex IP and corporate law matters, representing clients in high-profile litigation cases, helping individuals and businesses with estate planning challenges, or guiding institutional clients through investor and governance issues, we look forward to the many contributions these attorneys will continue to make to our clients and the firm."

Reinhart's new shareholders and their areas of focus are listed below.

Michael J. Baima is a shareholder and registered patent attorney in Reinhart's Intellectual Property Practice. He serves a wide range of clients involved in the mechanical and electromechanical industries. Prior to practicing as a patent attorney, Baima gained invaluable practical experience working as a product engineer for an electric manufacturing company where he was involved in product development for semiconductor and food processing industries. While working in this capacity, he designed a modular product system that reduced delivery time from three weeks to a single day.

Thomas M. Burnett is a shareholder in Reinhart's Litigation Practice where he represents a variety of clients such as business owners, insurers, actuaries, and financial institutions as well as product manufacturers, developers and distributors. Burnett has experience with a wide range of complex legal issues but concentrates his practice on product distribution and franchise litigation, false advertising and unfair competition, antitrust and trade regulation, and insurance and financial services litigation matters. Burnett is involved in all aspects of trial and appellate practice and successfully represents clients before state and federal courts throughout the country at both the trial and appellate levels.

Megan K. Jackson is a shareholder in Reinhart's Employee Benefits Practice and Institutional Investor Services and Public Plans subgroups. She works closely with a range of benefits providers, including domestic and global pension funds. Jackson reviews investment documents for private market transactions and provides legal counsel on a range of issues relevant to institutional investors
