Reinhart

Corporate Law

Reinhart's Corporate Law Practice partners with clients across a variety of industries, at all stages of development. We take an enterprising approach to the practice, working collaboratively to provide sophisticated yet pragmatic solutions. We accomplish this by understanding our clients' challenges, their worries and their aspirations. Our attorneys are experienced deal makers and problem solvers with the dedication, insight and connections to support successful business operations and transactions.

This business-focused philosophy guides everything we do, ensuring that we not only provide creative, practical solutions to the legal issues that confront your operations, but add value at any stage in the life of a business or organization. The depth and breadth of our team equip us to deliver exceptionally informed counsel and help you navigate the multiple challenges of running an enterprise today. From drafting and advising on important customer and vendor contracts, including supply chain and distribution arrangements, to assuring compliance in your operations, to structuring complex transactions, we can position you to protect your business and achieve your objectives.

While our focus is on the middle market, we serve a diverse client base, both public and privately held, domestic and international, ranging from early-stage venture capital backed companies to strategic and private equity companies to family-owned businesses. Our clients operate in a wide variety of industries and markets, from legacy institutions in manufacturing, technology, financial services, food and beverage and health care, to emerging industries such as craft distilling and biotechnology.

Our business law attorneys are particularly skilled in assisting clients with mergers and acquisitions, both strategic and private equity driven, with extensive deal making experience derived from a consistently high volume of deal flow. This level of understanding, coupled with a pragmatic, results oriented approach, has generated a consistent track record of successful transactions for Reinhart clients.
