Jack Murphy is a shareholder in Reinhart's Corporate Law Practice, where his collaborative, practical and business-centered approach inspires clients to see him as a natural extension of their team.

Jack represents a range of clients in mergers and acquisitions, divestitures, entity formation, growth financing, contract drafting and negotiations, corporate governance and a broad assortment of other transactional matters. He collaborates with private equity sponsors and their portfolio companies, strategic investors and business clients across a variety of industries, including manufacturing, distribution, life sciences and professional services.

Jack excels in learning the nuances of his clients' business and working closely with them to proactively avoid issues and find cost-effective solutions. Clients appreciate his responsiveness, attention to detail and ability to focus on their priorities. This alignment leads to long-standing client relationships where Jack's counsel is a valuable part of high-level strategic planning.

Jack is committed to his community, serving on the Board of Directors for the Girl Scouts of Wisconsin Southeast. He enjoys spending time with family, skiing and snowboarding, golfing, scow sailing and writing/producing music.
