Jordan Robinson-Delaney is an attorney in Reinhart's Trusts and Estates Practice, where her diverse education and professional background coupled with her energy and enterprising spirit give her unique insight and ability to assist her clients in reaching their trust and estate goals and objectives.

As part of her work in trusts and estates, Jordan also drafts advance health directives, trusts, marital property agreements and other documents. She provides clients with custom plans for their unique situations and advises them on best practices reflecting relevant tax implications.

Prior to joining Reinhart, Jordan worked as in-house corporate counsel at a Wisconsin-based manufacturing company where she structured, negotiated and documented complex supply arrangements, mergers and acquisitions, licensing, nondisclosures and more. She worked diligently to understand the needs and goals of the stakeholders, and proceeded to gain advantages and reduce unnecessary risks in each negotiation.

Jordan understands the intensely personal nature of the trusts and estates practice and enjoys the privilege of helping her clients ensure the legacy of their life's work is carefully planned. She is extremely detail-oriented, approachable and relational. She is uniquely suited to help clients navigate the often-unknown waters of their estates and trusts.

Jordan is passionate about the need for good estate planning and volunteers with Wills for Heroes, a nonprofit organization staffed by attorneys who provide first responders such as EMTs, firefighters and police officers with estate plans and advance health directives. Her hobbies include working with her husband on construction projects and travelling with her family and two rescue dogs.
