In the latest episode of the Labor & Employment Minute, attorney Rob Driscoll is joined by fellow attorney Michael Gentry of Reinhart's Labor and Employment Practice and the firm's Data Privacy and Cybersecurity Group to discuss the importance of data privacy for today's employers. Rob and Michael break down how data privacy and labor and employment interact with one another, steps employers can and should take to protect confidential information and issues on the horizon involving data privacy that employers should be on the lookout for.

Now more than ever, employers both large and small must take extraordinary steps to protect their data.
