

Regulatory and Administrative Law

Successfully navigating the intersection of state and federal regulations requires a legal partner who is well versed on the latest developments in administrative law and dedicated to seeing clients through even the most challenging situations. Our team of regulatory attorneys has the knowledge and experience required to efficiently handle complex administrative, regulatory and litigation or quasi-litigation matters. Clients regularly turn to us for guidance on regulatory development as well as the application and enforcement of existing rules and regulations.

We provide smart, sophisticated counsel at every step of the administrative law process, including research, guidance and rule development, drafting input and comments, evaluating economic impact and advising on administrative procedure. When rules and regulations are in place, we assist with agency coordination, permitting and licensing and enforcement defense.

We represent clients in proceedings before a myriad of governmental agencies overseeing energy, the environment, finance, tax, consumer protection, workforce development, employment and more.
