

Reinhart Welcomes Two New Attorneys to its Milwaukee Office

MILWAUKEE – Attorneys Ruth Bauman and Brad Jubber have joined Reinhart Boerner Van Deuren s.c. in its Milwaukee office.

Ruth M. Bauman is an attorney in Reinhart’s Labor and Employment Practice. She represents clients in matters related to policy and program development and implementation, internal investigations and compliance audits of employment practices, and counseling international businesses on the balance between consistent employee practices against the nuances of local country laws. Ruth has a practical and commercial approach to counseling businesses in the management of their workforce, and providing clients with the guidance needed to navigate their workforce through the ever-evolving legal and business challenges they face.

Bauman earned her J.D., from the University of Wisconsin Law School.

Brad G. Jubber is a patent attorney in Reinhart’s Intellectual Property Law Practice. Brad has experience in all areas of engineering and focuses his practice on patent counseling and prosecution in mechanical, electrical and software inventions. He also has experience with many aspects of patent prosecution including patent infringement and validity analysis, client disclosure meetings, and preparing patent applications and office action responses. Before joining Reinhart, Brad spent several years drafting and prosecuting patents in the software and mechanical arts area and over a decade working in aerospace engineering.

Jubber earned his J.D., cum laude, from the University of San Diego School of Law.
