Taylor Harrison is a paralegal and member of Reinhart's Corporate Law Practice and Data Privacy and Cybersecurity Team, where she is dedicated to helping clients with breach response, regulatory notifications and compliance, and development of privacy policies and procedures.

Taylor leverages her strong critical and creative thinking skills, along with her administrative background, to navigate heavy workloads and manage competing priorities. Her exceptional communication skills allow her to collaborate efficiently with her team and establish a strong rapport with clients. As part of a cross-departmental practice, she finds reward in building relationships and learning new skills, qualities that allow her to tackle an ever-changing landscape of data privacy laws.

Outside work, she enjoys reading and practicing yoga to remain mindful and present in all aspects of life.
