Will Dix is an attorney in Reinhart's Corporate Law Practice, leveraging his business background and experience as a CPA to assist clients with a wide range of transactional matters. He focuses on drafting and reviewing agreements, conducting detail-oriented due diligence and keeping clients abreast of new legal issues. Will's practice encompasses mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance and entity formation.

His Midwestern work ethic, rooted in his upbringing on an Iowa farm, drives his commitment to exceeding client expectations. Dedicated to their success, he is known for his ability to see the bigger picture, keen attention to detail and adept financial acumen when tackling particularly complex projects for his clients. He is passionate about solving problems for individuals and businesses that are making an impact in their communities.

Outside of work, Will enjoys playing and watching basketball, rooting for the Iowa State University Cyclones and exploring new things to do in the Milwaukee area.
